

Plymouth High School for Girls

"For life, not school, we learn"

21 September 2023

Dear Parents and Carers,

For Black History Month 2023, we will see the return of our Trust-wide Black History Month competition.

Previously, we have received an overwhelmingly large response which has been fantastic, with more than 150 entries submitted from all ages across the Trust. The range of pieces created and the awareness schools raised around the importance of diversity and inclusion was excellent.

This year's theme is "Saluting Our Sisters" and will focus on the crucial role black women have played in shaping history, inspiring change, and building communities.

It's encouraging people to dig deeper, look closer, and think bigger when it comes to the influential role black women have had on society to make it a better place for everyone.

With this in mind, we invite our students to create a piece of art focusing on the theme "Saluting Our Sisters". Whether a group of students wish to work together to write and present a poem or an individual desires to create a painting, any medium of art is welcome.

This Black History Month Art Competition is run by the Trust, and it gives our students a chance to use the Trust's platforms to showcase their artistic talents and celebrate black people in both modern and past history that are important to you and who inspire you.
